Lochdale Community Kindness Project!

The staff at Lochdale want to ensure that we maintain our strong ties with our students and community, as we are all missing each other right now. We know that during difficult times, a little kindness goes a long way. We also know that our students are our future leaders and have many great ideas about how to share kindness. We would like to extend the invitation to students and their families to engage in acts of kindness for another person or community group and share them by submitting a photo to Mrs. Redmond via email at Christy.Redmond@burnabyschools.ca.

These photos will then be posted on either our school website or Lochdale Twitter account. If students would like their first name to appear next to any photos, a parent or guardian must email and give permission. We look forward to spreading the joy and kindness of our community.

We want to thank Aria for beginning the project with her lovely

Some of our amazing Blogs from our staff:

Ms. Olsen— Here is the link to my music class blog. I'll be updating it weekly with new activities for each division. I've also included resources for the students to learn guitar, ukulele and recorder since we are unable to start those units as I had planned to. Finally, there are links to fun music websites that they can use to extend their learning as well. http://sd41blogs.ca/olsenc/

Ms. Lynka—Librarian. On the school website, you will find links to our library catalogue (with links to educational website), the district web resources (like Tumble Books), and also my library blog, where I will share fun resources and post videos with stories, activities and book and website recommendations.

"The Virtual Book Club is Coming! Ms. Lynka will be hosting an online book club for intermediate students featuring the novels of Kate DiCamillo. Please email her (carol.lynka@burnabyschools.ca) if you are interested in joining."

Ms. Boroumand is posting some fun science activities you can try out at home using simple materials from your kitchen and from nature. Check back each week for a new activity. http://sd41blogs.ca/boroumandn
